Vent-A-Hood Debuts Contemporary Designs on Web Site

RICHARDSON, Texas – (November 20, 2006) – Vent-A-Hood, the company that created the modern residential range hood, has unveiled a new section of its web site at www.ventahood.com devoted to its contemporary designs.

“The popularity of these new designs has created a demand to see them online, in kitchen settings, with the full array of options we’re making available to consumers across the U.S. and Canada,” said Blake Woodall, director of sales for Vent-A-Hood..

The designs are available in wall mount and island styles and offer consumers a choice when shopping for modern range hoods that can go over standard or professional-style cooking equipment. Of particular interest are the first-ever products from Vent-A-Hood that incorporate glass and offer rounded duct covers with the sleek stainless steel designs.

For more information, access the web site and click on the links named “Contemporary Wall Mount” and “Contemporary Island.”
